

HOPESAY PARISH COUNCIL
BULLYING & HARASSMENT POLICY and PROCEDURE
Adopted 14th November 2016

1. Purpose and Scope

1.1 Statement: Hopesay Parish Council (the Council) will not tolerate any form of bullying or harassment by, or of, any of its employees, officials, members, contractors, visitors to the Council or members of the public from the community which we serve. The Council is committed to the elimination of any form of intimidation in the workplace.

This policy reflects the spirit in which the Council intends to undertake all of its business and outlines the specific procedures available to all employees, officials, members, contractors and visitors in order to protect them from bullying and harassment. It should be read in conjunction with the Council's policies on Grievance and Disciplinary procedures, the Members Code of Conduct, and Civility and Respect pledges and papers (if any).

This and all current policies and procedures will be made available to all employees and Members as part of their Induction training and information. The Council may also wish to share this policy with contractors, visitors and members of the public.

1.2 Definitions:

Bullying

"Bullying may be characterised as a pattern of offensive, intimidating, malicious, insulting or humiliating behaviour; an abuse of this use of power or authority which tends to undermine an individual or a group of individuals, gradually eroding their confidence and capability, which may cause them to suffer stress."

Harassment:

"Harassment is unwanted conduct that violates a person's dignity or creates an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment." This usually covers, but is not limited to, harassment on the grounds of sex, marital status, sexual orientation, race, colour, nationality, ethnic origin, religion, appearance, belief, disability or age.

Bullying and Harassment are behaviours which are unwanted by the recipient. They are generally evidenced by a pattern of conduct, rather than being related to one-off incidents.

Bullying and harassment in the workplace can lead to poor morale, low productivity and poor performance, sickness absence, mental health issues, lack of respect for others, turnover, damage to the council's reputation and ultimately, legal proceedings against the council and payment of legal fees and potentially unlimited compensation.

1.3 Examples of unacceptable behaviour are as follows; (this list is not exhaustive):

BULLYING & HARASSMENT POLICY and PROCEDURE
Adopted 14th November 2016

Spreading malicious rumours, insulting or belittling someone, ridiculing or demeaning someone (which can include commenting on someone's personal appearance or disabilities), exclusion or victimisation, unfair treatment, overbearing supervision or other misuse of position or power, sexual advances and intimidation, making threats about job security, making threats of physical violence against a person or their family, deliberately undermining a competent worker by overloading work and/or constant criticism, constantly interrupting or aggressively talking over someone and not allowing the other to complete their sentences, blaming a person for others' mistakes, preventing an individual's promotion or training opportunities.

Bullying and harassment may occur face-to-face, in meetings, through written communication, including electronic communication such as e-mail or on social media, by telephone or through automatic supervision methods. It may occur on or off work premises, during work hours or non-work time. It may be unlawful, under the Disability Discrimination Act, Sex Discrimination Act, Equality Act, or other Acts.

1.4 Penalties: Bullying and harassment by any employed persons may be considered examples of gross misconduct which should be dealt with through the Disciplinary Procedure. If Members are bullying or harassing employees, contractors, fellow councillors, or others; then a referral should be made through the Standards process in place at the time and reported as a contravention of the Member's Code of Conduct.

If an employee is experiencing bullying or harassment from a third party, the Council will take appropriate action to uphold its duty of care towards its own employees. In some cases, harassment can constitute a criminal offence and the Council should take appropriate legal advice, often available from the Council's insurer or NALC, if such a matter arises.

1.5 The Legal position: Councils have a duty of care towards all their workers and liability under common law arising out of the Employment Rights Act 1996 and the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974. If an employer fails to act reasonably with regard to this duty of care by allowing bullying or harassment to continue unchallenged, an employee may decide to resign and claim 'constructive dismissal' at an Employment Tribunal.

Under the Equality Act 2010 bullying or harassment related to one of the protected characteristics covered by the Act (age, gender, marital status, sexual orientation, race, religion, belief, colour, disability) can be considered unlawful discrimination which could lead to an Employment Tribunal claim for discrimination against the corporate employer, the council and the perpetrator(s) as individual named Respondents.

In addition, the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 and Protection from Harassment Act 1997 created a criminal offence of harassment with a fine and/or prison sentence as a penalty and a right to damages for the victim. A harasser may be personally liable to pay damages if a victim complains to an Employment Tribunal on the grounds of discrimination. The 1997 Act was originally designed to assist in stalking situations but case law has demonstrated that it can be relevant to employment disputes, for instance; employers can be vicariously liable for harassment received in the workplace, that the conduct is viewed as 'serious', or 'oppressive and unacceptable', that a 'course of conduct' needs to be established but that this can link incidents which are separated by long time periods and that damages for personal injury and distress can be awarded under the Act.

2. Process for dealing with complaints of Bullying and Harassment

2.1 Informal approach – Anyone; employee, contractor, member or visitor, who feels that they are being bullied or harassed can talk to either the Clerk or a Member (if appropriate) who will try to resolve the problem informally, in the first instance, by explaining to the person(s) demonstrating unwanted behaviour that their conduct is unacceptable, offensive and is causing discomfort. Anyone concerned about being bullied or harassed is encouraged to maintain a journal or other record of the incidents, and to seek the confidential support of a third party at an early stage.

2.2 Formal approach:

2.2.1 Employees:

Where informal resolution has failed or is felt to be inappropriate, the employee shall raise any complaint about harassment or bullying confidentially, initially with the Chair - or another Councillor if more appropriate. It may be appropriate for the complaint to be put in writing after the initial discussion, as this will enable the formal Grievance Procedure to be invoked. The employee will be expected to provide evidence of the conduct about which they are complaining.

2.2.2 Others:

Any other party to the Council, other than an employee, who feels that they are being bullied or harassed should raise their complaint with the Council, where possible, if an informal notification to the alleged perpetrator has been unsuccessful at eliminating the problem. The complaint should then be investigated and a meeting held to discuss the facts and recommend the way forward.

HOPESAY PARISH COUNCIL
BULLYING & HARASSMENT POLICY and PROCEDURE
Adopted 14th November 2016

A member of the public who feels that they have been bullied or harassed by any Members or Officers of the Council should use the Council's official Complaints Procedure.

It is vital that the Officer(s) or Member(s) being complained about do nothing to hinder or prevent the Council operating impartially in its investigation and decision-making in this regard, and any action to so hinder or prevent will be considered to be Gross Misconduct.

2.3 Grievance – Employees only - A meeting to discuss the complaint with the aggrieved party will normally be arranged within five working days of a written complaint being received and will be held under the provisions of the council's Grievance Procedure. This meeting will be to discuss the issues raised and a way forward for the member(s) of staff involved. Employees have a right to be accompanied by a work colleague or a trade union representative at this meeting. Sole employees can be accompanied by someone of their choice. A full investigation of the complaint will be held by an officer, or other duly appointed person as appointed by the committee of the Council which is handling the process. It may be appropriate for an external investigator to be involved in order to maintain objectivity and impartiality. The Hearing Panel will publish its recommendations following deliberation of the facts. An action plan should be made available to the aggrieved employee to demonstrate how the problem is to be resolved. It may be decided that mediation or some other intervention is required and the council should contact NALC, an employer's body, or ACAS to this effect or the Council may offer counselling. The employee will have a right of appeal. At all times the confidentiality of the grievance will be of paramount importance in order to maintain trust in the process hence details of the full grievance will not be shared with the full council without prior approval by the aggrieved party. The Council will commit not to victimize the aggrieved for raising the complaint once the appropriate dispute resolution process has been concluded.

2.4 Disciplinary Action - Following a Grievance Hearing or investigation into allegations of bullying or harassment a full report will be made to all parties and this may result in disciplinary action being taken against the perpetrator of the alleged action/behaviour.

For an Employee found to have been bullying/harassing others this will follow the Council's Disciplinary procedure under the ACAS Code of Practice, and could be treated as Gross Misconduct.

For Members who the Council believe have been bullying or harassing another member or person(s) whilst undertaking Council activities, the range of sanctions available to the council are limited. Counselling or training in appropriate skill areas e.g. inter-personal communication, assertiveness, chairmanship etc. may be appropriate. Sanctions may include; admonishment, issuing an apology and/or giving an undertaking not to repeat the behaviour, removal of opportunities to further harass/bully such as removal from a committee(s), particularly where direct contact with the member, employee or decision-making about that employee could take place, or removing the right to representation on any outside bodies, particularly where there could be contact with the employee or member who has raised the complaint. A referral under the Code of Conduct to the relevant reviewing body should be made and there may be further disciplinary sanctions available depending on standards procedure in place at the time of the complaint. A referral to the Police under the Protection from Harassment Act 1997 may also be appropriate. This list is not exhaustive.

2.5 False or malicious allegations of harassment or bullying which damage the reputation of a fellow employee/Member will not be tolerated and will be dealt with as serious misconduct under the Disciplinary Procedure or a referral to the Standards process.

3. Responsibilities

All parties to the Council have a responsibility to ensure that their conduct towards others does not harass or bully or in any way demean the dignity of others. If unacceptable behaviour is observed, then each individual observer should challenge the perpetrator and ask them to stop. It should not be assumed that the victim can or should make the challenge, as they may be too shocked, intimidated or humiliated to do so. Failure to challenge observed unacceptable behaviour can and probably will be seen by the perpetrator and by the victim as condoning the unacceptable behaviour and establishing a pattern of abuse. 'Management' should never be an excuse for bullying. Management of performance usually includes feedback based on objective evidence, delivered in a specifically designated way by persons often trained to manage and appraise staff, with dialogue occurring on a face-to-face basis in confidential surroundings. Bullying is more likely to be complained about when individual Members criticise staff, often without objective evidence, and without the mandate from the corporate body of the Council.
